ANCORA Versicherungs-Vermittlungs GmbH
Sternschanze 1
20357 Hamburg

(hereinafter called Client)

(hereinafter called Insurance Broker)

The Client authorises the Insurance Broker and any legal successor to represent them in all insurance-related matters.

This Broker Authorisation includes in particular:

- the unrestricted active and passive representation of the Client vis-à-vis the respective insurers, including the submission and receipt of all declarations of intent, information, information and notifications relating to the insurance contracts. In particular, the Broker is authorised to receive all correspondence (mail receipt authorisation)
- the termination of existing and the conclusion of new insurance contracts,
- the assertion of insurance benefits from the insurance relationships brokered or taken over by the Insurance Broker as well as other cooperation in the context of claim settlement,
- the issue of sub-authorisation to VEMA eG, 95500 Heinersreuth as well as other corporate associations/pools that an insurance broker can join.
- the issue and revocation of sub-authorisation to another Insurance Broker or persons who are professionally obliged to maintain confidentiality,
- initiating and assisting with complaints to the Federal Financial Supervisory Authority (BaFin) or an ombudsman's office,
- the issue and revocation of declarations of consent for the purpose of obtaining credit information, as well as the request for self-disclosures,
- the issue and revocation of SEPA direct debit mandates,
- the issue and revocation of consent to the collection and use of health data, confidentiality waivers, as well as the request for information about stored and used data,
- the receipt or waiver thereof of the documents to be handed over by the insurer prior to the conclusion of the contract (in particular contract information, terms and conditions).

The Insurance Broker is exempt from the restrictions of Section 181 German Civil Code (BGB). It is therefore permitted to conclude an insurance contract for provisional cover between the respective insurer and the Client by representing both parties, provided it is permitted to do so by the insurer.

The Authorisation is not limited in time, but can be revoked by the Client at any time with effect for the future.
